I was employed at this time as a midwife at a busy government health centre, working as a member of the MCH services, including family planning, antenatal care, deliveries, postnatal consultations, neonatal care, and in the emergency room.

August 2010 – November 2017 Attat Hospital, SNNPR, Ethiopia

During this time I worked as a midwife on the antenatal, intrapartum, and postnatal wards, as well as in the Emergency Room, Surgical Wards, and Theatres. I was the first specifically trained midwife in the hospital and served as the Ward Manager for three years. I had overall responsibility for the maternal and neonatal health, and attended several training courses within this role, including assisted deliveries, neonatal resuscitation, maternal collapse and resuscitation, OASIS repair. I also took the lead for the HIV/AIDS support and counselling group within the hospital. I attended many emergency situations, assisted with caesarean sections, and delivered over 9,000 babies during my tenure. I was also responsible for the Maternal Death Monitoring and Reporting.
